Now Amanda Mackenzie Stuart has written "Empress of Fashion: A Life of Diana Vreeland" (Harper/HarperCollins) with the cooperation of the Vreeland family. Stuart says that before she began to research her, she thought of Vreeland as "a sort of scary, hip elderly lady who had fabulous exhibitions at the Met," who put Consuelo, Duchess of Marlborough, into an exhibition called "American Women of Style."

Empress of Fashion: A Life of Diana Vreeland | the ...

Diana Vreeland was the Empress of fashion! This book is such an interesting and informative read. Vreeland's entrance into the New York fashion scene in the early 1930's is fascinating. She was passionate about color, design, fabric...the absolute eccentric mistress of Quirk! I totally enjoyed reading about the early days of Bazaar and Vogue, too.
